Centex Corporation employed Tracey Nolte full-time as a SharePoint Administrator and Developer. For more than two years she managed the content and delivery of our SharePoint deployment including our Corporate Intranet. Her recent layoff was the direct result of an initiative at Centex to downsize during this slow economic time. Centex as a company eliminated our entire SharePoint staff. The layoff was not a reflection of Tracey's ability but rather a necessity based on the current market conditions.

Tracey is an intelligent and motivated individual. She was tremendous asset on our SharePoint team. She led the effort to correct many mistakes that were made during the initial implementation of SharePoint such as poor security architecture and lack of consistent look and feel. She was also proactive in determining deficiencies in our deployment and working to understand and correct them.

Tracey had immersed herself in SharePoint. She has been active in the Dallas SharePoint Users group and has attended many of the Microsoft workshops to improve her skills. All of this was done through her own initiative.

Tracey's best skill is her customer support attitude. She was always very quick to respond to customer requests and she worked to ensure that she had met their requirements. She was proactive in recruiting business partners to help with determining the direction of our SharePoint implementation. Her communications skills are excellent.

Tracey would be an outstanding resource for any company. If you would like additional information about Tracey, please do not hesitate to call me at (214) 505-9014
